PÉCS, HUNGARY

BULLETIN No.1

Dear Guests,
Dear Sport fans,

A prestigious event, the university wrestling world championship, is going to be hosted by the City of Pécs and the University of Pécs in the July of 2014. It is a unique competition in several respects.

On one hand, although the city of Pécs has already organised national Olympiad in this branch of sport and that there is a strong emphasis on the local junior education program, an event this prestigious have long been awaited by the local sport-loving public.

Secondly, Pécs is a city in which the students of remote lands often have the opportunity to meet owing to the foreign exchange relations and cultural events of the city; however at this event we welcome young excellences, whom are connected by sport and their love for sport.

Thirdly, wrestling is one of the most successful branches of sport in Hungary. Between 1908 and 2004 Hungary had 19 adult Olympic champions in wrestling, particularly in the Greco-Roman style.

The prestige of the event, internationalism and the Hungarian traditions all make this world championship significant to the city and University of Pécs.

When in the May of 2011 in Switzerland the right to host this championship was granted to Hungary, we undertook the continuation of a quite successful series.

Since 1986, Hungary has organised university world championships in several sport branches; recently in 2010 in Szeged in rowing and in Nyíregyháza in handball.

We are proud to have cooperated in the carry-out of this successful tender.

I hope that the sequence of success continues: in the 2012 wrestling university world championship our competitors earned one gold, one silver and one bronze medal.

300 young talents from 30 countries are expected to compete in Pécs. We are going to do our very best to make our guest acquainted with all the charm, values and historic buildings of our 2000-year-old city, Pécs.

Sport ambassadors of remote cultures and students of other universities are welcome at the event. We hope the meaningful friendships will be made and all participants will return home with memories of a hospitable university and city. "A sound mind in a sound body" - says the ancient saying. These young sportsmen are not only successful in studying, earning a degree and in their professional advancement, they also seek excellence in a completely different field of life.

The University of Pécs is proud to be the host of this prestigious sport event. We hope to receive similarly high standard, worthy tasks.

All participants and those interested are welcome at the event.

The Rector of PTE

City of Pécs

Even in prehistoric times man found shelter and a place to settle in the Pécs region. Protected by the Mecsek hill, the Roman settlement of Sopianae had already become a city 2000 years ago. By the end of the 3rd century AD Sopianae was one of the administrative centres of the province of Pannonia. Romans arriving here from the Mediterranean area almost certainly felt at home, and present-day guests from Italy probably feel the same when they visit modern-day Pécs. Indeed, is there any Hungarian city that is more “Italian” than Pécs? Looking at Széchényi tér (square) and the incandescent stones of the Jami (a type of mosque) on a hot summers day, walking through the southern-style Jókai tér in the late afternoon, visiting the promenade, the open-air restaurants and cafés of Király utca (street), and sitting down on the stone rims of the fountains on Színház tér, the visitor can feel transported to Italy. Viewing the city panorama from Harkány, the traveller could be in the hills of Toscana or Lazio.

It is certainly no accident that Janus Pannonius, the poet educated in the Italian renaissance, made his home at the episcopal castle. He sang of the almond tree flowering in wintertime, which even today are still blooming under the Niké statue, on Havihegy (hill) or in the Szkókó district at the beginning of spring. Looking down across the glittering surface of the Pellérd lakes, the eye searches for the sea in the distance, but the horizon is closed by the Croatian mountains, although the Adriatic Sea is only a few hundred kilometres behind them. Locals often imagine how marvellous it would be if only a small bay of Adriatic could wash upon the foot of the Mecsek hill. But alas for Pécs there is not even a small river...

Despite this, Pécs is – as described by a winning competition slogan – “the city of Mediterranean impressions.” At the end of summer city you can discover old fig trees in gardens and vineyards surrounded by rustic masonry on the hillside. The proportion of vines on the Mecsek is decreasing as houses climb up the hillside with the city’s rapid development, but wine is still produced on Aranyhegy (hill) and in Makár, Donátus, Bálics, Patacs, Rigóder and the gardens of Meszes. Not without reason is Pécs referred to as the “City of Grapes and Wine.” People who have lived in Pécs for several generations call themselves “tüke,” which originates from the word “tőke”, or vine-stock.

It is hard to put into words what it means to be a citizen of Pécs. Pécs is Pécs. It can only be measured against itself. “For me: it is THE CITY forever,” confessed the Pécs-born artist Győző Csorba. What can be said about Pécs is that the Mediterranean climate combined with numerous festivals help to define the city, from the Spring Festival to the Pécs Days festival held under the chestnut trees of the promenade. The National Theatre Meeting, the university festivals, the Grape and Wine Festival (accompanied by the Drinking Song Festival), all attract citizens and visitors to the city’s streets and squares. The citizens of Pécs celebrate life itself, and that is what binds the city’s community.
